C. P. Clarke, confidential representative of Governor Maytorena, returned Wednesday from Washington where he accompanied his chief to the A. B. C. conference. He said he had nothing to say for publication. Immediately upon his return to Nogales, Mr. Clarke paid a visit to Acting Governor Carlos Randall, to whom he delivered a communication from Gov. Maytorena.

Last evening a reply to Gov. Randall's protest to Secretary of State Lansing, against giving permission to the Carranza government to pass troops through American territory to relieve the garrison at Agua Prieta, was received here, it said and today will be handed to Governor Randall by Consul Simplic. The American government announces that Governor Randall will personally be held responsible for loss of American life and property in his territory.

Tuesday in the superior court, a jury found F. Olea and A. Sandoval, two Mexican soldiers, guilty of stealing and killing a cow belonging to Senator J. A. Harrison. The men testified that they were cavalymen of Maytorena's army and that they had been sent out to kill beef for the army camp at Buena Vista. They did not know they were on American soil when the cow was killed. Both denied that they had fired at American soldiers at the time of their arrest.

George P. Lock, special agent of the treasury department, with headquarters at El Paso, was here Wednesday on his regular annual visit of inspection of the customs house.
